OLD SWEET FLOURISHES

The Guests There Find Themselves More Than Satisfied With Life.

HISTORY OF BURNS'S FOLLY

An Interesting Tale of the Man Who Attempted to Beat the Toll Roads.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
OLD SWEET SPRINGS, W. VA., July
23.—The Old Sweet is maintaining its established reputation as a social center, and each day is rich in engagements and varied amusements, and the popular summer girl has to do some expert book-keeping to keep her "dates" separate and treated with nectar by the fair Ganymede who served them.

Mrs. J. Preston Carson, of Richmond entertained a choice company of her friends most charmingly at cards on the cool, green lawn before her hospitable cottage, Mrs. Carson's infinite charm and cottage, Mrs. Carson's infinite characteristic graciousness making the affair one of the most enjoyable of the season. The costly furnished plazza was temporarily turned into a serving room, where cool, delicious beverages were dispensed and treated with nector by the fair Ganyweds who served them.

The guests of Mrs. Carson were so deintily gowned in the softest, most bewildering combinations of colors that as they filted over nature's carpet of veivet green one was forcibly reminded of a flock of human butterflies, though I trust you will not think this too light a comparison, as in nature butterflies were intended to complete a picture, which in this instance was certainly done in paste shades, and the impression made was no fleeting one, I can assure you.

the land. This party rode over on cie regular county road, but were adventurous enough to attempt to cut off a few miles by returning by the road known as Burns's Folly—a road direct, built for some distance between the Old Sweet and White Sulphur, in the days when Mr. Oliver Burns thought no effort too great for the betterment of the Old Sweet.

The story goes that in those days all the highways in this neighborhood were toll roads, and the old gentleman found it a great nuisance in driving to be prepared with the necessary two cents to pay his fare, so on one occasion he found himself with no less change than a ten dollar bill, which he threw with some degree of annoyance at the feet of the toll mistress, who told him, as it would take some time to count out his change, she would have it ready on his return. So on Mr. Burns's return, nothing daunted, the toll mistress threw nine dollars and ninety-six cents at his feet in pennies. That incident settled the situation. Mr. Burns determined to be dependent upon the public no longer, and decided to build his own road.

This road he did survey and cut out for a number of miles, until he encountered a mountain range, which balked him. As in those days dynamite was not such a potent factor in road making as it is now, Mr. Burns spent a great deal of money on the undertaking, and found it

DELIGHTFUL ENCURSION.
Another of the most delightful and thoroughly enjoyed of the many excursions made by the guests of the Old Sweet was a trip to Natural Bridge.
Bridge whist enthrulls its devotees daily, and some of the expert players are to be found among the Richmond contingent. At a delightful evening party of compass bridge, given in the Grand Hotel parlors by Mrs. J. A. Lewis, of Charleston, W. Va., and her efsier, Miss Anne Finzer, of New 10rk, Mrs. F. C. Woodward, of Richmond, won the prize, north and south; Mrs. E. C. Nalle, of Washington, east and west.

Mrs. Joseph Slevens, of Washington, C. C. entertained most graciously at euchre on Tuesday morning, extending ber charming hospitality to all the lady guests of the hotel. The prize a cobweb of real lace, fashioned into a handerchief, was bene off by Mrs. F. C. Woodward, of Richmond, again the champion card player.

A very pleasant driving party was given in honor of Miss L. M. Belden, of Chrimati, and Miss Violette Lockwoo., of New York, two fair blossoms from our rosebud garden of girls.

But all told, I believe the pool partics at the magnificent bath are among the most enjoyed of our many diversions, line exhibitions of diving and swimming being an every-day occurrence, Miss Guest's C. A Bal Poudre Thursday Evening Was a Feature of the Week Just Gone.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BASIC CITY, VA., July 23.—One of the most pleasant and moral entertainments called "Educational Bee" was given Tuesday morning in the parlor of the Brandon by Mr. W. H. Heck, of New York city. The ladies and gentlemen, guests of the hotel, were invited, all were ready for the fray and a merry time ensued. The first prize, a beautiful box of candy was won by Mrs. Ferrell, of Richmond; the second went to Mrs. Meanly-the booby-a pipesuggesting "smoking up" was presented to Mrs. Moseley. The consolation to Miss Nannie Turner, of Lanexa, Va.

On Thursday night the ball-room prosented a beautiful sight. A Bal Pondre sented a beautiful sight. A Bal Pondre being the nature of the entertainment; the guests seemed to enter' into the spirit of the occasion and many appeared with powdered hair, paint and patches. It was exceedingly becoming to most of the guests. Some looked as if they had just siepped from an old portrait. Dancing was othe feature of the evening. All joined in a Virginia Reel and a merry time they had.

RUSSO-JAPANESE EUCHRE.

The Russo-Japanese Euchre was the largest card party of the season. Every evening there are numbers of small affairs gotten up by different laddes. Those loving Fan-tain take the parlor, the five hundred enthusiasis the lower lobby. The whist players the upper lobby.

The days are warm now and the end of the colohnade is quite popular. Mrs. R. W. Powers is always to be found there surrounded by the industrial circle busy with their fancy work.

Mrs. Powers does beautiful work and is ever ready and willing to instruct any one in the art.

The Brandon, situated at the junction of the Chesapeake and Ohio and Nortelk and Western is a delightful place for travelers to stop between trains going up to the higher mountains, and it makes it very pleasant for the guests at the hotel to have their friends with them for a few hours.

NATURAL BRIDGE, VA., July 23.—

Nowhere could one find a more ideal place to spend the summer than at Natural Bridge Hotel, where every one is made to feel at home, and to enter into the pleasures of the season.

The favorite pleasures at Natural Bridge are cards, bowling, horseback riding and dancing. The hack yesterday brought up a family from Jacksonville, Fla., who were received with open arms and with a shout of joy by their friends, and with a shout of joy by their friends, and with a shout of joy by their friends, They were Mrs. E. A. Champlain, Miss Annie Amplain, Miss Gertrude Champlain, Mr. Ernest Champlain, all of whom spent the summer here last year. Dr. Hartsook, of Southwest Virginia, is summering here.

Among other guests at the hotel are: Mr. John Stewart Walker's family, four children and nurse, of Lynchburg; Miss Kate Beckwith, Lynchburg; Miss Emma Beckwith, Petersburg; Miss Ruth Johnston, Baltimore; Miss Tyler, Richmond; Mr. T. > Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phil. F. Brown Happy as Days Are Long.

THIRD GERMAN IS ENJOYED

The Young People of Roanoke Take Part in It—A Musical Treat.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BLUE RIDGE SPRINGS, July 23.—The calendar asserts, and every one knows, that summer days are the longest of the year, yet the summer colony, gathered at this glorious old resort, are ready to proclaim them the shortest, for time at this glorious old resort, are ready to proclaim them the shortest, for time at this abode of the hiest seems to have grown an extra pair of wings. The mornings ily away in the twinking of an eye, afternoons scamper down the mountains with nover a backward look, and before the revellers are aware, the man in the moon is looking down. And such nights as one only dreams of, with the moonlight pouring over all, while across the valley bomes the evening breeze, heavy with the perfume of the Southern magnolia—enough to enthuse the most hardened old stoic.

On such a night did that delightful couple, Mr. and Mrs.Ph il F. Brown, select to entertain their friends with a watermelon fete. The rustic summerhouse on the broad sloping lawn was the setting for this romantic affair, which proved a feast of melon, moonlight and music for the seventy-odd guests who, like Faust, wished that time would oease and midnight never come.

THE WHOLE SISASON.

The scenes have shifted many times since that merry evening, and many are the actors who have made their exits and their entrances, but all are here, for most are booked for the season. Cards and card parties are often the means of whilling away the hours, and one of the most delightful card evenings was planned and carried out by one of Roanoke's handsome young matrons. Her wit and originality found expression in the prizes, some of which were beautiful, while others were mirrh-provoking.

A melon feast terminated this merry party, which was enjoyed by the following:

Friday evening the third german of the season held the boards, and like its predecessors, was a scene of beauty and elegance.

With a goodly number of pretty girls in dainty frills and flounces, handsome dames in real lace, broardes and didmonds, and more than a lion's share of the hords, and increased the twening dress, it goes without saying that it was a long to be remembered event. Dr. Ben Moomaw, of Roanoke, again carried off the honors in the roll of leader. The Roanoke German Club was present with eighteen couples and several unattached ords. They made the twelve-mille trip in their "special," which is sidetracked and awaits the pleasure of the young people.

Sunday evening the guests were given musteal treat by the-Philip Dalmas, of Philadelphia, and Miss Annie Moomaw, of Roanoke, Va., both of whom are musicians of note. Mr Dalmas has a superb baritône voice, which thrills his audience. This gentleman came all the way from Philadelphia to sing at a benefit concert in Reanoke, without cost or price, and spending Sunday at Bius Ridge, was again generous with his gifts. His departure for Europe on Monday to fill concert engagements occasioned universal regret. Miss Moomaw visits the Springs often, and the guests hope for many opportunities of hearing her beautifully trained voice.

We guarantee this to be true

Enough has been proven to us-regarding the above case and hundreds of others—to demonstrate beyond all question whatever that any of the known forms of skin disease—any eruption or breaking out—must quickly give way and disappear under the influence of this prescription (known as 'D. D. A.D.). Cases' of Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, Psoriusis, Barber's Rch. Acne, etc., some of twenty years' standing have been cleared off and permanently cured in a few weeks. In several cases from one to five years have elapsed and there has been no returning sign of the disease. Hundreds of cases cared since the preparation has been placed on sale show no sign at all of the previous affliction, and we fully believe they are permanent cures.
